SPLASHDOWN SUCCESSFUL

Seen & Heard Around Murray

Heard a story the other day about a fellow who was driving a brand new Cadillac down the highway when he sees a fellow riding a bicycle. He stops and offers the fellow a ride and tells him to put his bicycle in the back seat. Fellow starts to get in the car but when he sees the clean interior of the car declines saying he does not want to get the car dirty.

Well, put the bicycle in the trunk then, the man says. He opens the trunk and the fellow looks at the clean interior of the trunk and says the same thing. The trunk is too clean to get dirtied up by his bicycle.

OK says the man, why not get that length of rope out of the trunk, tie it to your bicycle and I'll just pull you down the highway. This sounded good to the bicycle rider who was getting tired anyway, so he tied one end of the rope to the Cadillac and the other end to his bicycle. Here's a horn, says the man, if I go too fast just honk this horn. With this setup, they cruise down the highway, with the bicycle being pulled along.

Nine dairy farmers in Calloway County have been cited by the Kentucky Artificial Breeding Association for superior accomplishment in dairy herd production. Four of these dairy farmers qualified for the KABA 500 Club by producing an average of more than 500 pounds of butterfat per cow during the 12 months ending September 30, 1969. They are:

W. D. McCuston, Murray, 43.0 Holstein cows, 15,474 milk, 3.6%, 563 butterfat; Charles B. Starks, Murray, 58.4 Holstein cows, 14,198 milk, 3.8%, 540 butterfat; Max Oliver, Kirksey, 52.5 Holstein cows, 13,723 milk, 3.8%, 535 butterfat; Murray State University, 69.1 Jersey cows, 10,464 milk, 5.0%, 530 butterfat.

Five of these dairy farmers qualified for the KABA 450 Club by producing an average of more than 450 pounds of butterfat per cow during the 12 months ending September 30, 1969. They are:

Thomas H. Palmer, Kirksey, 30.1 cows, 12,253 milk, 4.0%, 496 butterfat; Perry Harrison, Murray, 24.7 Jersey cows, 9,041 milk, 5.2%, 474 butterfat; Paul Blalock and Otley White, Murray, 102.1 Jersey cows, 9,202 milk, 5.1%, 471 butterfat; William E. Hendon, Murray, 55.2 Jersey cows, 9,057 milk, 5.1%, 470 butterfat; Jim Stahler, Murray, 46.7 Holstein cows, 12,566 milk, 3.6%, 456 butterfat.

In special recognition of these high production records, these men were recently presented with framed Certificates of Achievement by J. C. Kemp of Murray, technician for the Marshall-Calloway Artificial Breeding Cooperative, an affiliate of KABA.

Farmers who qualify for this award are members of the Kentucky Artificial Breeding Association and have more than 50% of their cows KABA sired. The statewide association, composed of 53 local cooperatives and more than 30,000 members, has bred over 1,785,000 cows since it was organized in 1946. With strong emphasis on herd improvement through the use of proven sires, and allied good farming practices, the organization has contributed materially to Kentucky's steady improvement in milk and beef production in recent years.

Whole Panel On Service Module Reported Missing

By VERN HAUGLAND
ABOARD IWO JIMA (UPI)

Apollo 13's astronauts splashed safely in the South Pacific today, winning a dramatic four-day struggle to overcome America's worst space emergency.

James A. Lovell, John L. Swigert and Fred W. Haise made it home in their command module Odyssey after discarding its ruptured service section and the lunar module Aquarius that saved their lives around the moon a quarter of a million miles away.

The astronauts for the first time got a look at the service module that had caused all their troubles and Lovell reported: "There's one whole side of the spacecraft missing. The whole panel is blown out."

Apollo 13's splashdown climaxed an unprecedented drama in space that resulted from the first failure in the nation's moon exploration program. The only scientific success from the $375 million mission was the crash of a spent rocket on the moon.

Flight Plan Radioed
A revised flight plan was radioed the Apollo 13 crewmen Thursday night, and Flight Director Gerald Griffin said "From here on, it's men and equipment performing. I think we'll make it."

Ten hours before re-entry, the astronauts reported the spacecraft was so cold that it was hard to sleep. Ground controllers urged them to try anyway so they would be rested for the critical return.

"Well, we'll take it easy and we'll try to sleep, but it's just awful cold," replied Swigert. "All of us have the same problem. It's just too cold to sleep."

Before reaching the top fringes of earth's atmosphere at 12:45 p.m. the three pilots had to make a final, minor steering correction to refine their path down the re-entry corridor, jettison their ruptured service module and then finally discard the lunar module LM that saved their lives when an explosion ripped the aft section of the command ship 205,000 miles from home Monday night.

Eager To Get Home
"Once the LM has blown away at one hour prior to re-entry the emergency is essentially over," said astronaut Alan L. Bean, veteran of the successful Apollo 12 moon landing mission, Thursday night.

The three astronauts were

Discharge Permit Sought By Resort

Application has been made to the Nashville District, Corps of Engineers for a permit to construct an effluent discharge line on Sugar Creek, near Murray. The permit is sought by the Irvin Cobb Resort.

The six-inch line would have an elevation of 353, which is six feet below the normal pool elevation of 359 on Kentucky Lake. The proposed installation has been approved by the Kentucky Department of Health, Water Pollution Control Commission. Controls require that all effluent be chlorinated before discharge into the lake.

Determination as to whether such permits are issued are based on an evaluation of relevant factors, including the effect of the proposed facility on navigation, fish and wildlife, conservation, pollution and general public interest.

Written statements received by the district engineer by May 8 will become a part of the record and will be considered in deciding whether the permit will be granted.

Don Gullett Wins First Major League Game For Reds

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Don Gullett won his first major league game Thursday night and the Cincinnati Reds think it's going to be a long, long time before he wins his last one.

"Twenty years from now it'll be nice to say I was there when he won the first one," Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said after Gullett was the winning pitcher in a 12-2 rout of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Gullett was rushed into the game when Jim Maloney ruptured an Achilles tendon while running out a ground ball in the third inning and had to be placed on the disabled list. Gullett, who entered the game with the Reds trailing 2-0, blanked the Dodgers on three hits the next five innings to get credit for the victory.

In the other games, Pittsburgh downed the Mets, 7-4; Chicago edged Philadelphia, 6-5; in 10 innings, San Diego beat Atlanta, 5-4, in 10 innings; and San Francisco downed Houston, 11-9, in 10 innings.

Willie Mays, who seemed to have lost his home run touch last season, remembered it at an opportune time. He slugged a two-run homer in the eighth to tie the game, 9-9 and Willie McCovey, who struck out in his first four tries, hit another two-run homer in the 10th to give the Giants the victory over Houston. Mays, who hit only 13 homers last year, now has 601.

The New York Mets seem to be playing like the Mets of old instead of the world champion Mets of 1969. They haven't hit a homer this season and haven't had a pitcher finish a game. And they made four errors to help Pittsburgh beat them.

Roberto Clemente drove in two runs for the Pirates and Al Oliver added a homer. Phil Niekro, who was 23-13 last year for Atlanta, is having his problems this year. He took a 4-1 lead into the eighth when Van Kelly and Clarence Gaston singled and Nate Colbert hit a three-run homer, his fifth, to tie the game. Pinch-hitter Ivan Murrell then led off the 10th with a homer to give San Diego the win and hand Niekro his third straight loss.

The Cubs, who are trying to forget last year's collapse, moved above .500 for the first time by beating Philadelphia 10-11, in 10 innings. Ron Santo doubled to open the 10th and Ernie Banks was intentionally walked. After Cleo James laid down a bunt single, Randy Hundley singled to decide the game.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bill Mazeroski has made the ball club.

If you have an idea you've heard that someplace before, you're right. You heard it 14 years ago for the first time and now you're hearing it again because even though he has been voted Pittsburgh's greatest second baseman of all time, even though he struck the blow which powered the Pirates to their first world championship in 35 years and even though he owns a half dozen different major league records, Bill Mazeroski is just getting to making the team—again.

"I had my doubts whether I'd make it when I went down to spring training this year," he confesses.

The reason he had those doubts has to do with some kind of mysterious muscle tear in his upper thigh which severely affected one of his legs two years ago and the other last year when he sat on the bench for most of the season and it began to look like curtains.

Went On Nerves
"I don't know how I did it," Mazeroski says about his muscle tear. "All I know is I couldn't go through another year like last year sitting on the bench."

Maz, the man whose ninth-inning homer off Ralph Terry of the Yankees turned the city of Pittsburgh upside down 10 years ago, was going along on nerves alone last season. He appeared in only 67 games with the Pirates, his batting average shrunk to a washed out .229 and he was considered finished at the ripe old age of 32.

He wasn't quite sure of that so what he did was go down to the Pirates' training camp at Bradenton, Fla., on Jan. 5 and give it one more try. It wasn't the usual one more try.

Mazeroski ran four miles each day. That only got him warmed up. Then he'd go out in the Gulf of Mexico and swim for about an hour, lying on a special kickboard and kicking both legs to stretch the muscles.

When the rest of the Pittsburgh players reported for spring training, Maz hadn't gotten rid of his doubts. They were still there the second week of March just before the club was due to make a four-day exhibition trip to Mexico City at which point Manager Danny Murtagh decided it was a good time for a little talk.

West's Derby Hope Terlago "Just Right"

By JANE GOLDSTEIN

Terlago, California's outstanding Kentucky Derby prospect, puts one in mind of the baby bear in "Goldilocks and the Three Bears."

Everything belonging to the baby bear was "just right" for Goldilocks, and Terlago's attributes appear to be not too much this or too little that, but just right for trainer Jerry Fanning.

"Terlago's a good mannered horse, about 15 hands 3 inches, 950 pounds, and good and sound," Fanning said from his headquarters in California. "He has a good disposition and is a pretty good doer. He's easy to train—sometimes a little tough to gallop but not too tough."

"He's not real nervous, but he's not too much the other way, either. The way he runs, he's got enough speed to stay out of trouble and still finish real good."

Fanning, who has never had a Kentucky Derby horse before, received Terlago on Dec. 20 last year. Marion Smith, who handles owner Samuel J. Agnew's breeding operations and races in Washington State, had saddled Terlago to win the Burlingame and San Mateo Stakes in northern California, then sent him south to Fanning for Santa Anita.

"I've never trained for Mr. Agnew before," Fanning said, "but I understand he has been trying for quite a while to buy a good horse. Dick Moon and Dr. Jerry Moon of the Moon Bloodstock Agency saw Terlago in a catalogue and recommended him. Mr. Agnew sent Dr. Moon, who's a veterinarian, to New York to check him out, and they bought him for $220,000 at a Belmont paddock sale Oct. 27."

Before Agnew, a lumber industrialist from Centralia, Wash., bought Terlago he had won the World's Playground Stakes at Atlantic City for Mrs. Wallace Gilroy, whose husband bred the Terrang colt in Kentucky. He was second to Hagley in both the Rancocas and Great American in the East.

In Smith's care in California after the purchase, Terlago won the Burlingame Stakes at six furlongs in November and the one-mile San Mateo on Dec. 6. He was out of the money in the Bay Meadows Juvenile Championship at a mile and a sixteenth in the mud on Dec. 20 and was shipped that night to SHOWING HIS SUPERIORITY in the Santa Anita Derby and thus becoming the Caliente winter book favorite for the May 2 Kentucky Derby was S. J. Agnew's Terlago. He is pictured in a workout at Santa Anita.

Fanning. It was the track condition and not the distance that bothered Terlago, Fanning said. His victory in the recent San Felipe

Fanning pointed out that Terlago "has been lightly raced this year, because of the strike first and then with races not filling."

He ran once at Golden Gate before taking the San Felipe, then followed that with victory in the rich Santa Anita Derby. Now he's Kentucky-bound and about to trace the hoofprints of last year's Kentucky Derby winner, Majestic Prince.

Fanning indicated he is going to take a page out of that winner's book—that is, he will attempt to follow the pattern that spelled victory for Majestic Prince in Louisville a year ago.

"I'm going to talk to John," said Fanning, referring to Majestic Prince's trainer, John Longden. "I'll ask him when he shipped out and what program he followed. I'd like to follow his routine. John ran the Prince in the Stepping Stone at Churchill Downs and I think that would be just about right for Terlago."

Owner Agnew too is ready to go to Kentucky. "I've never been to Kentucky in my life," he said. "I think this would be a great way to introduce myself to that part of the country."

Jockey Bill Shoemaker, who piloted Swaps, Tomy Lee, and Lucky Debonair to Kentucky Derby wins, has ridden Terlago in all of his starts this year. He commented, "I think he's as good a 3-year-old horse as there is in the country. There is a good chance that I will win my fourth Derby with him."

Fanning, born in Colorado Springs, Colo., moved with his family to Fort Worth, Tex., when he was nine and was galloping horses on a ranch where his father worked a year later. "I was going to be a jockey, but I outgrew it," he recalled. After graduation from high school in 1950, Jerry worked as a groom for his father, who was training a stable.

In 1953 he went in the Army for two years and after discharge went back to the race track. He has had a trainer's license since 1958 and formed a public stable three years ago.

Agnew, a leading Thoroughbred breeder in Washington, also will be taking his first shot at the Derby with Terlago. As a hobby, Agnew raises cow ponies and rides them himself in cattle cutting contests at horse shows.

Washington Tops Baltimore, Angels Defeat Minnesota

By United Press International

It started out like just another one of those nightmare evenings in Baltimore for pitcher Joe Coleman of the Washington Senators.

Coleman got off to a horrendous start by giving up three walks in the first two innings. But he settled down to give up only one more walk and seven hits and added a two-run bloop double in the second inning to give Washington a 4-2 victory over the Orioles. Frank Howard got the other Senator runs with a two-run homer, his second of the season, in the third inning.

The California Angels must just get frustrated looking at the standings, which show they lead Minnesota in the Western Division by just a half game. Adding to the frustration is the fact that the Angels defeated Minnesota, 3-2, Thursday night.

Jay Johnstone doubled in the fourth inning to start a three-run rally that knocked Dave Boswell off the mound. Roger Repoz walked and Joe Azcue beat out a bad hop single to load the bases.

Aurelio Rodriguez bounced a grounder to Cesar Tovar, who threw wildly to shortstop Leo Cardenas to allow Johnstone to score with the bases remaining loaded. Pitcher Lee May, who got the win in his first start, then hit into a double play as Repoz scored, and Sandy Alomar's bunt single brought Azcue across. Tom Hall took over then for Boswell to get the final out.

Elsewhere in the AL, the Kansas City Royals beat the Milwaukee Brewers, 8-5, the Boston Red Sox defeated the New York Yankees, 8-5, the Oakland A's beat the Chicago White Sox, 3-1, and the Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 4-2.

Rico Petrocelli drove in four runs with a three-run homer and sacrifice fly as the Red Sox rallied twice for a sweep of their three-game series with New York.

Louis Piniella slammed a three-run homer and Amos Otis knocked in three more to spark a 13-hit attack to push Kansas City past the Brewers.

Rick Monday drove in a run and scored another as he contributed two doubles and a single to Oakland's 10-hit attack, and John Odom, troubled by calcium deposits in his elbow, stopped the White Sox on six hits while going the distance for the first time this season.

Dick McAuliffe drove in the tie-breaking run with a fifth-inning single and later added an insurance run with a homer to give the Tigers their victory over Cleveland.

Hurtubise To Be Back At Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Jim Hurtubise will be back for another attempt at placing a roadster into the lineup for the Memorial Day Indianapolis 500-mile auto race.

Hurtubise's front-engine turbocharged Offenhauser-powered car was one of two entries received in the mail by "500" officials Thursday afternoon which brought the field to 76. The North Tonawanda, N.Y., driver-car owner was the last person to put a front-engine roadster in the May 30th race—in 1968 when he started 30th. Last year he entered a roadster but did not reach qualifying speed in his practice runs.

The other entry Thursday afternoon came from ABC Engines, Inc., Westfield, Ind., with Bernard Morley, Denver, Colo., named to drive the turbocharged Ford.

Speedway officials still expected a few more entries which will have acceptable postmarks prior to the deadline for entries of midnight Wednesday.

The next order of business at the Speedway will be the arrival of cars before the start of practice May 1. Time trials to determine the 33 fastest cars for the starting field will be May 16-17 and May 23-24.

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Braves accepted an invitation Thursday to play the Milwaukee Brewers in an exhibition game in Milwaukee on May 14.

The Braves played in Milwaukee from 1953 to 1965 before moving to Atlanta. This will be their first appearance in Milwaukee since the transfer.

Murray Blasts North Marshall

CALVERT CITY, Ky.—The Murray High Tigers blasted their North Marshall opponents, who played host to a 15-0 slaughter Thursday.

David Hughes went the distance for Murray as he pitched a shutout, allowing only two hits and two walks. His teammates aided him with a nine-run rally in the sixth inning.

Murray collected 15 hits in its third win. Its record stands at 3-1.

NBA Players Are Against ABA Merger

NEW YORK (UPI)—National Basketball Association players, presenting a solid front against a merger with the ABA, returned to Federal District Court today for a restraining order that would temporarily block any consolidation of the leagues.

The NBA Players Association, representing 165 members, filed suit in the same court Thursday against the NBA, its teams, its board of governors and the American Basketball Association, claiming a merger would be a violation of antitrust laws since it would "bind the players involuntarily to one team for their entire playing careers."

A ruling on the restraining order may take from 7 to 14 days and, in effect, would hold up any merger until a decision is reached.

"Our merger talks will be conditioned by what the judge rules Friday," said President Walter Kennedy of the NBA.

Only four NBA players are not involved in the suit. Player-Coaches Richie Guerin of Atlanta, Len Wilkins of Seattle, Al Attles of San Francisco and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix.

Dear Abby

Constant talker needs affection

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My stepson is 15. We get along very well and he is really a good boy. But Abby, he TALKS too much! This boy blabs everything he thinks, hears and sees. He is constantly interrupting adults to contradict them, and he takes over a conversation and holds the floor for as long as he can, running minor details into the ground.

He recently spoiled a surprise party I had planned for a friend. He simply TOLD her about it—not meaning to! Abby, he is not a bad kid, but I wish he would just learn to keep his mouth shut. I've even considered adhesive tape, but I don't think it is that wide. What can be done? He is driving me up a wall.

DEAR DESPERATE: Compulsive talking is only one of his problems. His obvious insecurity accounts for his need to draw attention to himself by interrupting, contradicting and holding the floor as long as possible. [Many adults never out-grow this.] Perhaps with maturity will come confidence, patience and better judgment. In the meantime, tell him you love him, and before opening his mouth to ask himself:

Is it true?
Is it kind?
Is it necessary?

DEAR ABBY: An acquaintance (I can no longer call her a friend) rang my doorbell early one morning, and after remarking on the weather, said with a little laugh, "There, now I have you on my candid camera!" Then she called my attention to a tiny camera she had in her hand.

I felt very resentful of this invasion of my privacy — particularly since I looked my very worst at that time of day, but I said nothing. How would you have handled that situation?

DEAR ANNOYED: I'd have asked to see the "cute little camera." I would then confiscate it, and with a little laugh I'd promise to return it after I destroyed the negative of my likeness.

DEAR ABBY: In the office where I work, and it is a very large one, men are required to wear shirts, neckties and jackets during office hours, but there are no rules about dress for women.

I don't object to miniskirts on young girls who have nice legs. But when an overweight middle-age woman with varicose veins wears a miniskirt — well, that's another matter.

Also, some girls come to work dressed like they're going to a cocktail party. Since men are required to observe certain rules of dress, don't you think women should, too?

A MAN [OF COURSE]

DEAR MAN: Yes. But it's more complicated to make "rules" for women. All women should be told on hiring that they are expected to dress modestly and appropriately for an office. [This should eliminate neckties that are down to there, and skirts that are up to here.] If a woman violates the rules, the office manager should give her a warning. And if she likes her job, one warning should suffice.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STILL HOPING": A fine artist knows when his painting is finished. A wise woman knows when the affair is finished. Accept it with grace.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Better eggs

Hens have every reason to cluck with pride these days. Their eggs are getting bigger and better. Better strains of chickens, better feed and better egg handling are all contributing to larger, higher quality eggs for the consumer. For example, only 67 per cent of the eggs delivered to West North Central Region packing plants in 1948 rated Grade A or better. In recent years, nearly 90 per cent of the deliveries made Grade A or better. It's a general trend across the country—so that consumers are getting better eggs for their money.

The station wagon on the left is known in some circles as a status symbol.

The station wagon on the right is known in the same circles as a mistake.

Now the status symbol is long and low and really quite beautiful.

Whereas the Volkswagen is short and high and really quite ugly.

The status symbol features a powerful engine.

A Volkswagen engine is not as powerful, but it'll go a whole lot farther on a gallon of gas.

The status symbol boasts roughly 88 cubic feet of carrying space.

The Volkswagen has twice that amount, 176 cubic feet.

Conclusion:

If you're looking for something to show how big you are, then we suggest you get yourself a status symbol.

But if you're looking for something that's just plain big, then maybe it wasn't us who made the mistake offer all.

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican national party organization is asking its corps of campaign workers to follow advice attributed to Abraham Lincoln in 1840:

"Make a perfect list of all the voters and ascertain with certainty for whom they will vote."

The GOP is not asking for perfection. It is asking county chairmen and precinct captains to classify 80 per cent of the voting age residents by name and party preference, then getting at least 80 per cent of the probable Republican voters registered.

Campaign Manuals
Lincoln's advice and much more is contained in 6,000 campaign manuals being prepared and circulated by the national party organization to county chairmen and vice chairmen in all 50 states. A separate manual goes to party leaders in the precincts.

The books are custom written and printed to fit the political laws and language of each of the 50 states with their varying deadlines for voter registration and candidate filing.

This "Mission 70's" project indicates that attention to the nuts and bolts of campaign organization did not vanish from the GOP national headquarters with the retirement a year ago of Chairman Ray C. Bliss.

His successor, Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton of Maryland, serves as a spokesman for the Nixon administration. But he also budgeted $250,000 this year for building the party organization at the local and state level.

The operations plan will be presented to state and county chairmen of 27 states by the end of April and of all 50 states by about July 1. One objective is to enable county chairmen with limited political experience to get an early start.

A county chairman who follows the book will set up a candidate recruitment committee to check qualifications of candidates.

Set Priorities
He will set priorities for target offices and submit a progress report and final report on candidates to the Republican state headquarters.

The chairmen will see that all precincts have chairmen, too, and calculate the requirements for volunteers.

Vote goals are set for precincts and counties, with special attention reserved for those with Republican strength above the average.

Other sections of the manual deal with such political organization problems as budgets, fund raising, publicity and absentee voting.

Republican leaders do not expect to create a new, modernized political structure this year. But they are hoping to build one in this decade.

Tomato Anomaly Of Plant History

By Nevyle Shackelford

LEXINGTON, Ky. — The tomato, now produced by the millions of tons here in these United States, is an anomaly of plant and garden history in America. Although of American origin and cultivated by Indians long before the first voyage of discovery by Columbus, it was rejected as a food in this country until long after it had been commonly eaten in Europe. As a matter of fact, according to garden authorities, up until about 125 years ago most North Americans believed the tomato to be poisonous and therefore would have nothing to do with it.

The mistaken idea that to eat a tomato was suicidal probably stemmed from the fact that the plant is a member of the Nightshade family, of which some species indeed, are deadly. Also the pungent, unpleasant odor of the leaves when crushed no doubt contributed to the belief that the fruit was unfit for human consumption.

Horticulturists and plant researchers of our Agricultural Experiment Stations state that the cultivated tomato apparently originated as wild forms in the Peruvian Andes and was carried northward into Central America and Mexico some two thousand years ago by migrating Indians. There is, however, little evidence of it ever being grown by Indians north of what is now the Mexican border.

Historical records indicate that tomato lovers of the world owe a debt of gratitude to Italians. The first known record of its culture was in 1550 when an Italian writer, calling it "poma Peruviana," wrote of the tomato being grown as a garden vegetable in his country. Apparently therefore, Italians were the first Europeans to eat it. By about 1575, according to these old records, the tomato had reached gardens in England, France, Spain, and other mid-European countries, but not as an edible vegetable. It was grown merely as a curiosity.

By the middle of the 18th century, the tomato was in extensive production in Italy as a food and to a considerable extent elsewhere in Europe. But it wasn't until after 1776 that North American settlers became aware of its value as an edible vegetable. It is said that none other than Thomas Jefferson who, along with being a statesman as well as a very progressive-type farmer, was one of the first North Americans to grow it. This was in 1781, but for more than 25 years afterwards most of his compatriots rejected it. Recalling old folk tales that it was a poison fruit, even today it is possible to find persons fearful of eating a tomato. They not only consider it poisonous, but will swear its seeds cause appendicitis.

Professional horticulturists say the various colors and shapes of tomatoes grown today are the same as those discovered by the early explorers of America. Only difference is that these plant experts have improved upon the size, texture, and smoothness of the fruit and upon the productivity of the plant. All other characteristics remain basically the same.

To the 17th century French and English, the red tomato was "pomme d'amour" (apple of love). Some Europeans called the yellow variety, "golden apples" which caused Old John Gerard to hazard the guess that they were the same as those which poets "fabled" as growing in the dragon-guarded gardens of the daughters of Hesperus—the very same dragon Hercules slew in the wonderful days of mythology.

These golden apples of Hesperus more likely were oranges, but then they could just as well have been yellow tomatoes transplanted from Peru by some old god with whom nothing was impossible or improbable.

Our word "tomato," according to Extension specialist in Horticulture, Robert L. Shepherd, is but a slight modification of "tomati," the name by which it was called by early Indians of Mexico. But by whatever name, it is now at last one of our most valuable and delicious vegetables.

The death rate from cancer among women dropped 13 per cent since 1936 but increased 37 per cent among men.

Surveyor 3 Camera Shows Very Little Damage After 950 Days

By EDWARD K. DELONG
UPI Space Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—For 950 days a television camera sat exposed to the harsh space environment atop the Surveyor 3 robot moon lander in the lonely, dusty lunar Ocean of Storms.

Meteoroids, whizzing through space, occasionally crashed into the camera during that period of almost three years. It was a fine test of how equipment of the future may fare if man attempts to set up bases on the lunar surface, as some would like to do.

And how much damage did those speeding meteoroids inflict? Almost none, say space agency experts who are examining the camera which was brought home by the Apollo 12 astronauts.

Man-made dust. In fact, the experts say, the dust kicked up by Apollo 12's descent engine during the final moments of the landing may have sprayed the camera with more fine particles than all those that hit it before Apollo 12 arrived.

A report prepared by Burton G. Cour-Palais, chief of the meteoroid science branch at Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center, said there were 10 to 100 times more little craters on the side of the camera facing the dust storm than on the other side.

"A preliminary analysis...revealed that the Surveyor 3 TV camera experienced meteoroid damage of negligible consequence during 950 days exposure to the space environment," a spokesman for the examination team said.

"However, the analysis reveals numerous shallow craters of recent origin, apparently caused by the LM (lunar module, or Apollo landing craft)." Astronauts Charles Conrad and Alan L. Bean set their lander down 600 feet from the Surveyor, but dust at the site was so thick that Conrad said the cloud blocked his view of the surface during the final moments.

Moon Souvenirs

Conrad and Bean cut off the camera and a length of polished aluminum tube from the Surveyor during one of their moon walks. They returned these to earth, where they were analyzed by Cour-Palais and his group.

Cour-Palais said craters generated by the dust storm particles hitting the camera "were shallow craters, generally, and mostly of recent origin as indicated by their whiteness against the sandy brown color of the TV camera housing's painted surface. There was a definite concentration (10 to 100 times) of these white craters on the arc of the TV camera facing the LM, compared with the other side away from the LM."

The preliminary report said five craters traced to meteoroid impact had been found on the camera housing and four more of possible meteoroid impact were on the polished tube. It said none of the craters penetrated the camera's protective paint layer.

NO. 3 in President Nixon's efforts to fill the Supreme Court vacancy is reported to be U.S. Circuit Judge Harry A. Blackmun, 61, shown in his judicial robe. He lives in Rochester, Minn.

More Teenagers Will Be Idle In Summer Than Ever Before

The mathematical symbol of 40 percent has now attained national significance.

A special study by the National Federation of Independent Business started when the new Federal minimum wage law became effective and continued through 1969 showed that 40 percent of the independent firms who formerly hired teenagers stopped this practice.

The United States Labor Department in its just released report of the impact of the minimum wage on teenage employment reports over 40 percent of the government operated local employment service offices believed employers would hire appreciably more 16 and 17 year olds if it were possible to pay less than the Federal minimum wage.

The figure 40 can be said to crop up again, for after almost 40 months of labor, the Bureau of Labor Statistics comes up with the conclusion, "that you can drive a horse to water, but you can't make it drink."

For this point was established long ago by the Federation surveys, and in the Labor Department report it is affirmed. That point is that the employer attitude toward employing teenagers would change if teenagers could be employed for a lower level of pay, or a differential, "particularly," says the report, "employers located outside of large urban centers."

While the Labor Department says that increases in the level and coverage of the Federal minimum wage may have contributed to the employment problems of teenagers, the Federation findings, based on the signed responses of more than 300,000 independent business firms show that over a half - million job opportunities were closed to teenagers.

While the Labor Department report goes into a great deal of probably irrelevant detail on the experience of teenage employment in Japan, Italy, and most of the world, including Soviet Russia, it also comes up with the findings that in addition, there is more American teenage unemployment because there are more teenagers.

Thus, on one point both the Federation and the Labor Department appear to agree, and that is this summer there will be more idle teenagers than ever before in history.

A typical comment received by the Federation is from an Indiana retailer with 11 employees who says, "We have always hired at least six high school students part-time but we will have to decrease or eliminate the number of students in our employ due to the increase in minimum wages for this group, for frankly they are not worth it, in terms of services they are able to provide. We feel this extension of the minimum wage to this group will eliminate a lot of students from jobs. This is bad. To many of our students, top dollar is secondary. Having a job with some responsibility for a few hours each week is primary."

In the meantime, the nation's teenagers seem to have no champion in the Congress since the death of Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois. Shortly before his death, the veteran statesman was preparing to launch a drive to amend the wage law to help teenagers find more job openings.

To go on hamburger

For hamburger fans, here's a variation on the traditional tomato barbecue sauce. Cook 1/2 cup of sliced onion in 1/4 cup of butter or margarine until onion is light brown. Add 1/2 teaspoon of salt, 2 tablespoons of worcestershire sauce, 1 tablespoon of lemon juice, 2 tablespoons of sugar, 1/2 teaspoon of oregano, 2/3 cup of ketchup and 1 cup of canned apple sauce. Mix well. Serve hot. Makes about 2-1/2 cups.

Museum acquires historic microfilm

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI)—An original microfilm—the same model which helped convict mobster Al Capone of income tax violation—has joined the "Hall of Fame" of Eastman House, museum of historic photographic equipment.

Invented to record bank checks, the unit is one of 229 microfilmers produced by Eastman Kodak Company in 1929, one of which is credited with providing a microfilm copy of a check supporting federal charges against the gangland czar of the 1930s.

A 1927 reader unit also was presented to the museum. These early microfilm units represented a historic breakthrough in the technology of record-keeping.

If it be Possible

let this cup pass from me" (St. Matthew 26:39).
Even the Son of God could not always have His way. The bitter cup did not pass. Even though Jesus prayed three times for the cup to go away. He always concluded with, "not as I will, but as thou wilt".
He drank it deliberately in a calm majestic mood, while God stood by in loving sympathy.
By drinking that most bitter cup, Jesus became the Saviour of the world. God gave Him strength for the suffering and through this heroic deed, Jesus became perfect.
People, all about us, every day, cry the same prayer, "let this cup pass from me". We tremble at the ordeal ahead. Our faith shrinks to know we must suffer such fate as St. Matthew spoke of. But suffering seasons us. It links us to God, for high adventure and noble service through His church.

Two-Thirds Of Nation Opposes Busing, According To Survey

LOS ANGELES - Sixty-five per cent of the American people are opposed to altering school districts and busing to achieve integration. Only 22 per cent favor these steps, and the plan found least favor in the Midwest.

These findings are based on a national public opinion poll conducted for "The Advocates," which is presenting a two-part live television debate on the school desegregation issue from KCET here.

Part one, telecast April 12, featured Massachusetts Commissioner of Education Neil Sullivan, Dade County (Fla.) School Board Chairman G. Holmes Braddock and Mrs. Electra Price of Oakland, Calif., who has worked with the American Friends Service Committee, all in favor of busing.

Part two, to be telecast Sunday,

April 19, from 10 to 11 p.m. EST, will feature Yale professor - author Alexander M. Bickel, Washington Post columnist William Raspberry, Prof. Henry Levin of Stanford University and North Carolina Superintendent of Public Instruction A. Craig Phillips, all opposed.

Dr. Herman Goldberg, chairman of President Nixon's National Advisory Council on Education of the Disadvantaged and superintendent of schools in Rochester, N.Y., is serving as "the man faced with a choice" for the two-part program.

"The Advocates" poll was taken between March 27 and April 4 and represented a nationwide sampling based on 1,063 adults in telephone households in U.S. cities, towns and rural communities. A total of 532 men and 531 women participated.

The Opinion Research Corporation of Princeton, N.J., which conducted the poll for "The Advocates," asked the participants to respond to the following:

"Many neighborhood schools have children of only one race because the neighborhood itself is that way. In order to have integrated schools, redrawing the lines of school districts and busing of children to schools outside their neighborhoods has been suggested. Would you be for or against busing children and redrawing school district lines to attain integrated schools?"

Besides the 65 per cent total against the proposals, 22 per cent favored them and 13 per cent had no precise opinion. The results by sex were: men - 23 in favor, 68 against and 9 had no opinion; women - 22 in favor, 62 against and 16 per cent had no opinion.

In the regional findings, it was indicated that the South and West were almost equally opposed to the integration proposals, the Northeast most in favor of them and the Midwest least in favor of redistricting and busing. The results were:

Northeast - 33 in favor, 53 against and 14 had no opinion;

South - 19 in favor, 70 against and 11 had no opinion; Midwest - 17 in favor, 68 against and 15 had no opinion, and West - 24 in favor, 69 against and 7 per cent had no precise opinion.

"The Advocates," a 39-part series of debates on major issues of the day, is made possible by grants from the Ford Foundation and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

The people we lend money to tell us what to do.

We lend money to farmers and ranchers. Nobody else. And the people who borrow buy stock in PCA. That way, they tell us what to do. They decide who is really going to run our operation.

It's a great arrangement. We end up being owned and operated by the people who need — and use — our service. So we know all about their special money needs. Supplies, equipment, maintenance, extra help, medical bills, educational expenses. And we know how to tailor repayment programs to their production and income. Talk over your money needs — any season of the year — with a seasoned money pro: the man at PCA.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Bad Samaritans"

Moralists accuse the modern man of a growing tendency to avert his eyes from the fallen stranger and to shut his ears to the cry for help. When a "Bad Samaritan" is pressed for an explanation he will usually say:

"I didn't want to get involved."

All too often what he really means is:

"I didn't want to get sued."

This fear of a lawsuit has gotten out of hand. The fact is that, in terms of legal liability, getting involved is simply not that dangerous. A successful suit against the person who lends a helping hand is actually a rarity. The notion that he is responsible, in case anything goes wrong, is just not so.

True he can usually be held liable for, say, gross negligence—just as we all can in our everyday activities. For instance, a motorist taking an injured pedestrian to the hospital may be held liable if, by driving recklessly, he causes a collision that worsens the injured man's condition.

But if there is no negligence, there is no liability. Take this case:

A woman getting off a stool at a lunch counter lost her balance and fell to the floor. Two men, coming to her aid, tried to help her over to a chair. But she suddenly grew faint and slipped out of their grasp, falling again to the floor.

Could the two men be held legally liable for the woman's second fall? A court ruled they could not. The court said that since they had made an honest effort to be helpful, and had used reasonable care in doing so, they bore no blame in the eyes of the law.

Of course, in a particular situation, a bystander might have a legitimate motive for not interfering. For instance, prudence may deter him from trying to tackle an armed robber. Ignorance may deter him from giving first aid.

But if he does hold back, he should at least do so for a good and sufficient reason. An exaggerated fear of legal liability is not a good and sufficient reason.

Splashdown

eager to get back home, and the latest plans called for them to arrive by Air Force jet at Houston Sunday morning after splashdown tonight on the two Jims.

Lovell and Haise would have ended their second moonwalk early today and at midmorning would have blasted off from the lunar surface.

The first two days of the flight went without a hitch. But at 10 p.m. Monday night, some 55,000 miles from the moon, Apollo 13 was jolted by an explosion and the three astronauts had to draw upon every bit of their skill, courage and training to survive.

"A Beautiful Job"

"They've handled it exactly like we'd expect them to," said Slayton. "I think they did a beautiful job of it."

A highly placed space agency source said engineers think the failure originated in the service module's oxygen system where something burst.

DIAGRAM shows how the Apollo 13's course had to be changed to not miss Earth.

"We were damned concerned Monday night," said Slayton. "No question about it."

The astronauts' final 24 hours in space were devoted to preparing for the last seven hours of flight today. Controllers spent more than two hours radioing them detailed, step by step procedures that had been tried out on the ground by astronauts "flying" spacecraft simulators.

Like Reading "War And Peace"

"It was kind of like reading 'War and Peace' or something over the air," said Griffin. "This checklist business is a first. It's an awful lot of reading."

Lovell was anxious to get the procedures written down early so he, Swigert and Haise could get some sleep before re-entry. "We've got to realize that we've got to establish a work-rest cycle up here so we can't just wait around here to read the procedures all the time up to the burn," he said. "We've got to get them up here, look at them and then we've got to get the people to sleep."

At one point, Lovell appreciatively said of the lunar module: "You know, I think Aquarius is coming of age here."

KOBE, JAPAN (UPI) — The Kobe district court has ruled that a man may not divorce his wife just because her blood type is not to his liking. The court handed down the verdict against a man with AB type blood who claimed that his wife's O type blood would make it difficult for them to have normal children.

and this man driving the Cadillac says to himself, "I'm not going to let this guy pass me," so he speeds up. So does the fellow in the small car. Pretty soon they are racing down the highway, side by side. A Policeman spies them and takes off after them but the two outrun him.

The Policeman pulls into a service station and asks if the operator saw two cars racing side by side past his place. "Yes I did," the man says. "They were going at least 100 miles an hour. But, the oddest thing," he continues, "there was a fellow on a bicycle right behind them, honking his horn like crazy, trying to pass both of them."

Oh well, we tried anyway.

Norman Klapp seems to have recovered from his recent bout with the flu and allied difficulties.

This is the year of the 17 year Locust which will emerge from about now through June. More on this later.

One of Murray's strongest husband-wife business teams, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Jones.

Another, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jeffery.

The new school warning lights on Main at Eighth and Ninth are good. However, there is no speed limit to which speed should be reduced. There should be a sign on the warning lights saying "15 miles per hour" or some such speed. A big drawback however, is that a motorist does not have to come to a halt at the two intersections to let the kids cross. Perhaps school monitors are needed to be stationed at the two intersections, properly identified, who have authority to stop traffic so children can cross safely or maybe policemen, properly uniformed to work only during certain hours. This is a problem that should be attended to at once before some child is struck by an automobile.

In larger cities we see Police-women at school intersections who do a great job. They command attention and respect.

This is not just a school problem, it is a city problem.
